Bear-Fight-Terrific Combat at the Cincinnati Zoological Gardens. [Ciscionati Commercial.] It was found necessary yesterday to re

One of the iron doors of the compartment not being fully closed, resulted in one of the small brown bears discovering what he considered intruders in his family's do-main. Every line was a conceived than described.

The polar now for the first time seemed to be fully enraged, and with great leaps jumped up and down on the prostrate foe, uttering deep, hoarse growls that called forth an answering chorus from all the animals surrounding. He at last held the carcass down with one paw and commenced rending the bear with The keeper, who had opened the doors, making a passage-way through to the polars' quarters, now went to work with a long, pointed iron rod, and succeeded in driving the polars back to their quarters, when he immediately let down the doors. The victorious animal thirsted for more gore, and in his efforts to gratify the desire exhibited almost human ligence. Placing one paw against the iron door, he would push on it as if raising a window. Twice it yielded partly, and, holding it in position, he would lower his head sideways and look through the opening; but when he attempted to get under it a relaxed hold would return the door to its place. On the last trial he raised it, and with the assistance of the other paw gave it another lift, and was half-way through into the adjoining pit before the keeper could drive him back. The door was then securely fastened to prevent a repetition of the preceeding. For the next half-hour the polar continued trying to get through, and at last gave it up as a bad job.

TWO-MILLION-AND-A-HALF GIEL SAID TO BE ENGAGED TO A YOUNG GRANT. - [Washington Letter.] - Of all the stories that float, none seems so protean as that relating to Ulysses Grant, Jr., and Miss Jennie Flood. Whether they are or are not engaged has been affirmed and denied so often that nothing but lapse of indefinite years or the wedding will prove either side. As to how or when they became engaged, the exact moment and the impelling cause, no one can tell. Sufficient that Ulysses, Jr., crossed the continent in the Flood's own private car, the parties consisting of Mrs. and Miss Flood, J. Flood, Jr., whom they had gone on to New York to meet on his return from a trip around the world, his travelling tutor and the fated Ulysses. On that long, tedious, eventless journey, it is not to be wondered at for what rash thing the young man might do; to be guile the tedium of the trip anything would be excusable. The Flood car was hardly emptied of its party before San Francisco gossip bad it that Miss Flood and Ulysses were plighted. He spent the week of wait-ing before his father's arrival between the city and the Flood's country place, and during the festivities that followed he took during the festivities that followed he took possession of the young lady at parties, and played perpetual escort in a very business-like and matter-of-fact manner. EXCEEDINGLY COMPLICATED CASE WHICH

The sensation caused by the trial of Mile. Biere for attempting to shoot her lover has barely begun to subside before another case, equally extraordinary, but far more painful, is on the point of coming before the Paris Assizes. The origin of the story dates as far back as the summer of 1869. In that year a young man named Affred Gilbert fell in love with a young girl of the page of Cabrilla, the case of Cabrilla, the case of Cabrilla, the case of the page of the pa DEATH OF MR. SARUEL PUTNEY .- Mr. In that year a young man named Alfred Gilbert fell in love with a young girl of the name of Gabrielle Coran. They both belonged to poor families, and both lived in the neighborhood of the Palais Royal.

After courting in secret for some months the young man demanded the band of his they father, who was an arsweetbeart, but her father, who was an ardent Bonapartist and occupied a stall in one cial pursuits. The weather yesterday was clear, mild, in a suburban retreat. On the promise of forgiveness and consent to their marriage the girl returned home to her parents, but the father declined to keep his word, and liberal contributors to that church, as well liberal contributors to that church, as well as one of its principal founders, and at the time of his death was one of the stewards of the church. Davis and lady, who vied with each other in exhibitions of good old Virgioia hospitality. A party of our own citizens were also present by invitation of Mr. Davis, and joined with him in attentions to the visitors. The hearty band-shake and the everlasting "Come and see me" of the Old Dominton were as cordially tendered the New England visitors as was the thundering cannonade at Seven Pines some eighteen years ago. Truly a change has come upon us, and our little family quarrel seems to have made us only more kindly disposed towards each other. The ladies and gentlemen appeared well pleased with their visit to our city. After pleased with their visit to our city. After having had a reception tendered them by President and Mrs. Hayes, and enjoying other hospitalities at the nation's capital, our little entertainment of a drive about the city and a visit to West Point and Lester Manor seeemed almost insignificant. So it must have been the great good-will with which our own press committee tried to make it pleasant for them which they appreciated; or it may have been the exceeding good bumor of the party themselves which made them enjoy every thing so much. There was among the party a remarkably sweet and womanly face; that of a lady somewhat advanced in years, with soft white hair and low sweet voice-nothing loud or self-asserting in her manner. THE OPERA OF CINDERELLA LAST EVE-NING .- The amateurs still continue to improve in their rendering of the opera of the Glass Stipper. The Theatre was filled with another fine audience last evening, and a highly creditable performance was given. Our suggestion of yesterday was taken, and the beautiful chorus concluded the opera and florid character of which is so trying and ill-suited to her register. She gave very acceptable portrayal of the part last evening, and for surpassed her former ef-forts in the lovely solo, "Once a King That Chanced To Be," and the duet with Prince Felix in the first act. For the latter both she and Mr. Hoff received hearty and wellmerited applause, and the little lady again the recipient of exquisite floral offerings. Her dressing was superb. Mrs.

J. H. Knowles, Jr., for her lovely singing and acting as the Fairy Queen, came in for her share of honors. The two sisters, Miss Giles and Miss Pe louze, who are always good, surpassed their former efforts, and created much mirth by their inimitable acting. In Mr. Charles Juergens's Baron Pompolino we recognized members absent at the opera of Cinderella the meeting was postponed until next Monday night.

The entire opera is under the able direct tion of Mr. Charles L. Siegel, and to bim in great part is due the success of so difficult on undertaking. He has been ably assisted En a full and well conducted orchestra, the singe-managers, Messra, Joseph W. Laube and Upshur Bass, the untiring and energette others, to whom we would gladly give the credit they deserve. The expenses of the undertaking have been great, and we only wish that a pecuniary result may be realized commensurate with the task and the noble charity for which it is given. Friday night the opera will be repeated for the last time, when we trust the company will receive a perfect ovation. THE MOZART THIS EVENING .- First, over

The Stippery Peel.

RICHMOND, April 28, 1880.

Editors Dispatch: There is tolerated in this city a practice which should be pro-hibited by the City Fathers, if they have any care for the safety of the limbs of the citizens. Walk out upon any street, and you will find the slippery peel of oranges, lemons, and bananas lying upon the side-walk to the imminent peril of the passers. by. Such is the case now, and when our own native fruits come into the market the pavements will be still more dangerous to pedestrians.
In New York there is an ordinance by the sidewalk. Such an ordinance would certainly render our streets safer, and it could be rendered effective by giving half WORTHY SIX. Very respectfully,

The Poll-Tax.

RICHMOND, VA., April 28, 1889.

Editors of Dispatch: Please state in your paper whether or not a man who has paid his capitation-tax for 1879, but has not paid them for 1878 or 1877, will be allowed to vote in the primary election and in the No-vember election of this year, and oblige A WORKMAN. The payment of the tax for 1879 only will be required at the primary and at the two elections to be held this year. [For the Dispatch.] Will you be kind enough to thank Messrs. A. Saks & Co. and E. B. Taylor on behalf they sent us on the morning after the fire on Tenth and Cary streets.
